Virginia Cavalcade

Contents of Volume 48 • Winter 1999–Autumn 1999

Number One, Winter 1999

Elizabeth and Thomas Roper, Proprietors: Tavern Keeping in Colonial Virginia
SARAH E. SARGENT 4

Turnpike Tourism in Western Virginia, 1830–1860
WILL SARVIS 14

An Unfamiliar Country: Mapping Virginia During the Civil War
RICHARD W. STEPHENSON 24

A Lost Temple in the Virginia Wilderness: Discovering the Site of the Cedar Creek Meeting House, 1939
JANE DOUGLAS SUMMERS BROWN 36

Rediscovering the Site of the Cedar Creek Meeting House, 1998 46

Number Two, Spring 1999

Was Pocahontas Half-English? Folklore, Fact, and Fiction
KATIE LETCHER LYLE 52

A Hot Day in Lexington: The Dedication of the Marshall Library, 1964
ROYSTER LYLE, JR. 64

A Break Down on the Underground Railroad: Captain B. and the Capture of the Keziah, 1858
JOHN T. KNEEBONE 74

Go and Get a Box: Henry Brown's Escape from Slavery, 1849
JEFFREY RUGGLES 84

Number Three, Summer 1999

The Kids of Summer: The Integration of the Little League in Norton, Virginia, 1951
LANN A. MALESKY 100

Percy Miller and the Danville Leafs, 1951: The Integration of Minor-League Baseball in the South
BRUCE ADELSON 108

Good Playing and Gentlemanly Bearing: Baseball's Beginnings in Richmond, 1866–1883
W. HARRISON DANIEL 118

Generalship at Jamestown: The Marquis de Lafayette and Anthony Wayne at the Battle of Jamestown Ford, 1781
NOEL B. POIRIER 134

Number Four, Autumn 1999

The Satisfaction I Feel in Having My Papers So Properly Arranged: The Papers of George Washington
DOROTHY TWOHIG 148

Every Thing Trim, Handsome, and Thriving: Re-creating George Washington's Visionary Farm
DENNIS J. POGUE 158

Written With My Own Hand: George Washington's Last Will and Testament
JOHN P. RILEY 168

And Procure for Themselves a Few Amenities: The Private Life of George Washington's Slaves
MARY V. THOMPSON 178

George Washington in Virginia Cavalcade: A Bibliography 191